

DAVID STEINBERG

Care Coordinator

David was looking to make a career change prior to joining AtlanticProCare, and while he had worked in medical offices before, prosthetics and orthotics was new for him. He's really taken to the change, and enjoys seeing how much of an impact our care has on our patients' overall well-being.

What do you find most rewarding about your work?

The atmosphere here immediately matches what I envision a medical office should be, and that is focused on the overall well-being of the patient. That doesn't just mean that we take care of their prosthetic/orthotic needs. Patients here are family, and we treat them like family. That was the first thing I noticed when I started working here, and I see the benefit of that focus in our patients' lives every day.

How does your work make a difference?

I am the face and the voice of the practice. Honestly, in my opinion, there are not many roles that are as important. My goal is to make sure that I can assist the patient, and also fully represent the values and goals of the practice. There have been several times where I've talked with patients who have been brought to tears, and when someone is in that fragile of a state, it is important to have a knowledgeable and compassionate resource to tell you everything is going to be okay, and we will get through this together.

How do you unwind?

I like to unwind by watching my local sports teams, playing video games, watching movies and tv shows. I also enjoy reading books and taking my beautiful dogs for walks.

What's the best vacation you've ever taken?

I went to Scotland for my honeymoon in 2016. The lush greenery, the beautiful vistas, the incredibly nice locals made it the best vacation I ever took. I tell everyone that Scotland is made of pure magic.

What's the vacation you want to take but haven't (yet)?

I would love to go to New Zealand. I really want to visit The Shire! That is absolutely a bucket-list vacation, for sure.
